

Business mobile evolution data.

Tailor-made data subscriptions to meet your needs.

Business mobile evolution data is a data subscription that offers companies customized mobile data communication based on their individual needs. The rate plan features maximum flexibility while minimizing the administrative burden.

In addition to the usual billing forms, with Business mobile evolution data you can also choose alternate billing options that will enable you to obtain certain included services or a full flat rate.

Flat rate (pooling solution) with quantitatively well-defined included services.

Business mobile evolution data gives you a great deal of flexibility to design your own subscription by integrating, at a company level, a certain number of included services – dynamic packs (based, for example, on current volume) – into the subscription. In addition to the national data volume, you can also define data volume in the pool for roaming, with everything based on your exact needs.

The size of each dynamic pack can be changed at any time to reflect your company's changing data volume needs over time. You benefit from a greatly reduced administrative burden with customized dynamic packs.
